

CANYON UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH CONFERENCE

ACADEMIC PRESENTATION OPPORTUNITY FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The Canyon Undergraduate Research Conference will showcase innovative, multidisciplinary research from both Grand Canyon University undergraduate scholars and a distinguished group of invited high school researchers.

Participation in this event is a tremendous honor, reserved for a select number of high school scholars who have demonstrated exceptional academic achievement, intellectual curiosity and a passion for research.

These outstanding high school students will have the unique opportunity to present their research posters to an esteemed audience of GCU faculty, students, administrators, industry partners and community guests. Throughout the event, high school participants will receive thoughtful, personalized feedback from GCU faculty while also engaging in meaningful dialogue with GCU's undergraduate scholars.

In addition to presenting their work, high school attendees will gain valuable insight by learning from collegiate-level research presentations, expanding their academic horizons and deepening their understanding of practical research applications across disciplines.

This invitation-only experience is designed to inspire, challenge and empower the next generation of scholars. We encourage you to apply by Feb. 20, 2026.
